

Upcoming Trauma-Informed Training

The George Hull Centre Institute of Childhood Trauma and Attachment is pleased to continue offering high quality trauma-informed training for child and youth-serving mental health professionals like the below. Not all training is shared here, so sign up for the Institute of Childhood Trauma & Attachment's newsletter to receive all training and news directly to your inbox.

Trauma-Focused Assessment Certificate Program

Improve your skills in assessing trauma through this 10-day course on the assessment and treatment of trauma in children and youth. In this course you will learn:

- Why and how to ask about trauma
- How to work with families
- Interview protocols that help keep your clients safe and connected and that are developmentally appropriate
- How a good assessment leads to effective and focused treatment plans that include measurable goals

Dates: Apr 17-18, May 15-16, June 19-20, Sep 11-12, Oct 9-10, 2024 $1,999.00

Click here for more information and to register.

Neutralization

This training will educate participants on addressing terrifying sensorial reminders, or "triggers," from past traumatic events that can lead to avoidant and phobic behavior. Participants will gain skill-based training, understanding clinical differentiations and criteria for method choices, and will be encouraged to apply this approach with clients using their own case example.

Date: May 30, 2024 $149.00

Click here for more information and to register.

Sexual Development 101

- Do you worry about whether sexual behaviour you see in children you work with is developmentally appropriate?
- Do you know what to ask these children and their families when you are concerned?
- Do you understand cultural considerations when addressing concerning behaviour?

Concerns regarding sexualized behaviour of young children are often identified by parents, day care staff, school staff and others. Ensuring that normative behaviour is not mislabeled, nor concerning behaviour ignored, is important. Join us in this workshop that will bring additional clarity to these issues.

Date: May 2, 2024 $199.00

Click here for more information and to register.

Changing the trajectory of children's mental health.